

GASP mentors for SPSP 2019 meeting in Portland

GASP

---

GLBT Alliance in Social and Personality Psychology

Mentorship Luncheon for LGBT Research, Researchers and Allies
SPSP Meeting 2019

GASP is the GLBT Alliance in Social and Personality Psychology, an official affiliate of SPSP (<http://gasp.psych.utah.edu/index.php>). Membership and events are open to all students, postdocs, faculty and other professionals, regardless of sexual orientation or research interest. Allies are especially welcome.

With support from the Diversity and Climate Committee of SPSP, we are delighted to invite you to attend the 2019 GASP Mentoring Luncheon at SPSP in Portland. Volunteer mentors will host discussion tables on a variety of research and professional development issues.

Chair: Lisa G. Aspinwall, University of Utah

Paul Connell, Stony Brook University
Conducting Research with Important Practical Implications

Jeff Hunger, UCLA
Navigating the Job Market

Jin X. Goh, University of Washington
Getting a Postdoc

Clayton Critcher, UC Berkeley
Psychologists in Business Schools

Lynn Carol Miller, University of Southern California
Grant Writing: How to Write (and Get) Grants

Jon Freeman, New York University
Being LGBTQ in Science

Joshua A. Tabak, Facebook and Cornell University
The Ins and Outs of Being Out in Industry

Laura King, University of Missouri, Columbia
An Open Conversation with Your Aunt Laura

Kristina Olson, University of Washington
Recruiting LGBTQ Samples

Maureen Craig, New York University
Transition from Postdoc to Faculty/Setting up a Lab

Cheryl Kaiser, University of Washington
Managing Early Career Professional Relationships

Theresa K. Vescio, Penn State University
Publishing Work That Challenges the Gender Status Quo

Charlotte Tate, San Francisco State University
Thriving at an R2

Nicholas Rule, University of Toronto
Strategies for Research Success: Productivity and Time Management

Keith Welker, University of Massachusetts Boston
Writing Productivity